

Determining Redundancies in Content Object Directories

ABSTRACT

A system for identifying files can use fingerprints to compare various files and determine redundant files. Frequency representations of portions of files can be used, such as

DE 7044009 v1

10